

WORKSHOP

LEADERSHIP AND COMMUNITY SAFETY

Are you a young emerging or aspiring leader living, studying or working in the South West of WA?

Are you aged 19 – 39 and interested in helping to make your local community safer, more vibrant and resilient?

Skilled leaders and teams are called on for many reasons including adapting to climate change, fire-fighting, fire prevention and mitigation, road safety and crime prevention – to name a few.

What's on offer?

The Pacific Institute (Australia) and the Balingup Bush Fire Brigade is running a program based on the latest cognitive and neurosciences to support and promote the upskilling of a new generation of community leaders through:

- Practical tools to attain high levels of physical, mental and social wellbeing;
- Identifying and pursuing life's big goals;
- Finding your purpose for leadership;
- Developing your own and others' leadership capabilities;
- Motivating yourself and others.

These tools are designed to be applied not only to community safety, but also to family, friends, community and situations back in the workplace.
